

“Because the blood of the crucified Man cleanses away all our sins. We are all sinners in need of forgiveness. The blood is the source of forgiveness.”

As Tarek showed me the way of salvation, I prayed with him to receive Jesus. I felt such great joy, but I was afraid for my family. When I called home and spoke to my sister, she yelled at me and said I could never return home because I was a Kafir.

After many weeks of wandering in the North, attending churches and learning more about Jesus, I decided to call home again. To my surprise, my sister spoke kindly to me and even apologized. She said I should come home, that my parents missed me and wanted to see me.

My father and the family welcomed me home and asked me to explain everything to them. As I answered their questions, they knew I wasn't lying. They all decided that they wanted the same peace and joy I had found in Jesus. They accepted Jesus the same way I did, including my sisters.

I am now walking in my new life with Jesus and He is leading me and protecting me everyday. He has truly given me a new life.

- Jamil

This true story was written as it was told to Ali Abdel Masih, author of

“Out of Darkness into Light”

You can order this book on our website:

www.LifeofJesusproject.org